This concert will be Stotland's debut performance at the Jewish Public Library. He is excited to bring his eclectic sound and will be performing songs by Rabbi Shlomo Carlebach z"l as well as his own original compositions. Stotland will be joined on-stage by a complete band comprising some of Montreal's greatest musicians in what will be a fantastic evening of diverse Jewish music and celebration.

Cantor Adam Stotland of Shaare Zion Congregation is a native Montrealer and is well-known in the Montreal and international Jewish music scene where he has been performing for over a decade. Whether solo or as part of his group called Shtreiml, Adam has performed at various venues in Montreal, the United States, Europe and Israel, including his performance last year as Shlomo Carlebach in the Segal Centre's production of Soul Doctor. Adam brings an energetic soulful presence to Jewish music played in a contemporary style.
